Big SPIKE and Little TYKE

Billie Bird tilted his head attentively as his mother admonished him sternly, "Now take care of Bertie and keep him inside while I go out for food!"

But as soon as she had fluttered out of sight, Bertie leaped from the nest and into the wintry air.

"Don't worry, I'll be back before mama returns," Bertie called mischievously as he winged away.

Billie hesitated a moment, then dived reluctantly into the cold, snowy wind after him.

"Where are you going, Bertie?" Billie asked when he caught up with him.

"I'm going over to the school to see my friend, Johnny Jones," replied Bertie as he hurried on.

Billie followed his little brother through the icy wind, landing beside him on the window ledge of the schoolhouse.

Bertie peeked in the window and sighed, "Just as I thought, there's Johnny sitting all alone in that stuffy schoolroom!"

"Why isn't he out for recess like all the other kids?" Billie Bird asked.

"Johnny thinks he isn't good at winter sports, so he doesn't even try any more," Bertie explained.

"Well, what can we do about it?" Billie asked.

"Let's coax him to come outdoors and play!" Bertie exclaimed. Anxious to help his lonely friend, Bertie flapped his wings and tapped on the windowpane to attract Johnny's attention. "Come on out," Bertie pleaded.

Johnny's face brightened when he saw Bertie, but, instead of doing as Bertie suggested, he ran over to the window, raised it a tiny crack, and sighed, "Oh, it's no use! The kids are making snow men, and I'm so slow, the others always make fun of me!"

"Gee," chirped Bertie, "we'll help you!"

With this encouragement, Johnny decided to try, and he raced outside to join his friends. Without losing a minute, they got to work. While Johnny rolled up the soft snow, Bertie and Billie added a glob at a time, carrying so much that they could hardly fly!

At last, a pudgy snow man began to take shape. Just as Johnny was ready to set the round head in place, Bertie flew in to drop his last load of snow. PLOP! Johnny's snowball crashed right on top of Bertie, burying him in the packed mass of snow.

"Help! Help!" Bertie gasped, but his cries were muffled inside the snow man's head.

Billie heard the cries, and he flew frantically around the snow man, trying to figure out where the sounds were coming from. Then, with his beak, he began to dig furiously into the snow man's head. He pecked two holes, but he did not uncover Bertie. He tried again, lower down, digging a big curving gash. To his great relief, there was Bertie, wiggling to be free.

When the other kids ran over to see Johnny's snow man, they stopped in their tracks and stared in amazement.

"Jeepers!" one exclaimed, pointing to the holes Billie had pecked out in the snow man's head. "Look at Johnny's cute, roly-poly clown, with its wide eyes and big, grinning mouth!"

"It's the best snow man of all!" cried another, as they crowded around Johnny and patted him on the back.

Bertie and Billie flew happily home, and arrived just before their mother returned.

"Well," she asked, "can you boys eat after staying quietly at home all day?"

"Yes, mama!" asserted Bertie, grinning at Billie, who gave an understanding wink!

MOUSE MUSKETEERS

DAD! read this ...DECIDE "YES" ON THAT DAISY AIR RIFLE!

Because Daisy air rifles are sometimes confused with other type air rifles, we want you, Dad, to know these helpful facts:

1 The Daisy is NOT a high-powered pneumatic, gas, pellet or compressed air gun. It cannot be pumped-up to increase power!

2 DAISY is a spring-action, short range, low "factory limited" power air rifle—safest of its kind for training boys and girls aged seven through fourteen!

3 Daisy is now used in the 15-foot junior marksmanship training programs of the NRA, NEA, BSA, schools, camps and clubs because of its safer spring-action, safer short range, safer low power.

LET'S FACE IT, DAD!

Your junior wants a Daisy right now or for Christmas—an important decision for you! Why not get all the facts about the many supervised shooting programs now available to your junior with his Daisy—buy that Daisy now! And send coupon today!
